Con ecos de la novela Grandes esperanzas de Charles Dickens y de películas como Gloria de John Cassavetes y El chico de Charles Chaplin, Los niños es una novela inquietante y profundamente original, todo un hallazgo literario de una de las voces más interesantes del panorama de la literatura latinoamericana actual.

Laura Romero, antigua locutora de comerciales de muebles y del servicio telefónico que da la hora y rentista de la mina de sal familiar, vive con su galgo Brus y es asidua de los supermercados. A la casa de esta mujer solitaria llega, una noche, un niño de seis años llamado Fidel. No se sabe de dónde viene ni quién es, habla siempre misteriosamente y parece no estar familiarizado con los usos del mundo. Mientras trata de asignarle significados a su presencia, Laura lo pierde y lo recobra intermitentemente, pasando por varios estadios en los que encuentra personajes y situaciones que todos conocemos: el vendedor de mercancías en un bus, el lenguaje burocrático del hogar de paso, la señora parlanchina. A través de la historia central de una pareja insólita —la de un niño y una mujer que no es ni pretende ser su madre—, y en un tono de fábula clásica, y con visos de terror psicológico, Los niños explora los límites del aislamiento y la intimidad y hace una reflexión, en ocasiones humorística, sobre la compasión, la maternidad, la hospitalidad, el abandono y la infancia.
